CONTENT CREATION – CHANGED FOREVER...

Content Commoditization – Value Shift from Creators to Aggregators

- Newspapers, once the bastions of content creation / curation, are experiencing 5th straight year of declining revenue.
- With undifferentiated products, price is competed down to marginal cost. And the marginal cost for digital content is $0.
- How does one create differentiated content in an economically viable manner, when few want to pay for it? – For insights, check out Joanne Bradford’s Web 2.0 presentation.

AUTHENTIC IDENTITY – THE GOOD / BAD / UGLY. BUT MOSTLY GOOD?

Authentic Identity – The Good / Bad / Ugly. But Mostly Good?

With 800MM global active Facebook users...50% that log on in any given day...with an average of 130 friends...and an average of 80 community pages / groups / events...and more than 250MM photos uploaded per day and 350MM active mobile users...*

And 835MM smartphone users (likely ramping to 1.4B within two years)...

It's hard to hide. The 'truth' is often just a photo/click–send away.

'Clean, well-lighted place to do business?' 'People are basically good?'

In a world with tremendous uncertainty – owing to the rapid ramp in always-on, connected citizens of the world, perhaps, the world is on the cusp of being safer than ever?

There are lots of sacrifices. This is new terrain.

Only time will tell how all this plays out...
